

Professional Development for Teachers

There is increasing pressure for teachers, trainee teachers and learning support staff to incorporate the latest technology into their role.

EDI offers two qualifications, both nationally accredited, which will raise an awareness and understanding of the benefits of technology in education.

Qualifications available

- EDI Level 3 Certificate in Educational Use of Information and Communications Technology (ICT)
- EDI Level 3 Certificate in Delivering Learning Using a Virtual Learning Environment (VLE)

Qualification details

EDI Level 3 Certificate in Educational Use of ICT

This nationally accredited qualification has been developed for teachers, trainee teachers and learning support staff who need to integrate the use of ICT into their teaching, training or supporting role.

Teachers will be able to:

- Understand the benefits of ICT and use appropriate delivery technologies
- Select and prepare ICT-based resources for teaching and learning
- Use ICT effectively to enhance learning in their own curriculum area

The qualification comprises three units, all of which are assessed through assignment.

EDI Level 3 Certificate in Delivering Learning Using a VLE

This qualification has been developed in order to address the current and future needs of teachers and support staff, in a range of organisations, to be able to use a Virtual Learning Environment (VLE) or other online learning platform in the delivery of learning.

On completion of this qualification, teachers will be able to:

- Navigate, understand the functions and appreciate the benefits of a VLE
- Select and prepare online resources and upload or arrange for upload to the system
- Monitor and give feedback on online learning and assessment

The qualification is nationally accredited. It comprises three units, each of which is assessed through assignment.

About EDI

Education Development International plc (EDI), formed in 2002 by the merger of LCCI Examinations Board and Goal plc, is a leading global awarding body and pioneer in online assessment.

As the fastest growing awarding body in the UK and one of the largest for funded vocational qualifications, EDI receives around 200,000 registrations for vocational qualifications each year in the UK. These include National Vocational Qualifications (NVQs), Scottish Vocational Qualifications (SVQs), Vocationally Related Qualifications (VRQs) and employability awards.

Internationally, EDI offers a wide range of LCCI International Qualifications specialising in Finance and English Language. Over 200,000 certificates are awarded each year in more than 100 countries.
